

Never again

Once again I find myself in the corridors of time I flow like wind, I flow like wine hurling away over and over again to seek out knowledge from ancient times of past It flows like wind, it flows like wine never resting, what would you do if you knew...

The creatures of doom will lurk in the silence of the night you cannot see, you cannot flee hurling away all in a motion of stall they catch up with you and tear your soul apart you cannot see, you cannot flee never resting, what would it be like if...

Never again they always say now they're about to repeat the lines Never again we always thought now we're surrounded by confines

Now again I see the light in the corridors of time I flow like blood, I flow like mud spasms away over and over again to spend some time in the boredom and the pain It flows like blood, it flows like mud never resting, what would it be like if...

now they're about to repeat the lines
Never again we always thought
now we're surrounded by confines

now they're about to repeat the lines
Never again we always thought
now we're surrounded by confines
