

How Long

How long will I wander through this land of misery? how long until I find the strength to say goodbye

How long must I suffer, how long must I cry
in this life of darkness,
in this endless night

Broken dreams and shattered hopes, it's all I've ever known I need a guiding light, a sign to help me through the night

How long must I suffer,
how long must I cry
in this life of darkness,
in this endless night

There must be more to this life than what I've seen but every time I reach out, it slips away

How long until I find
the courage
to find a brighter day
waiting just for me

I know the sky is blue somewhere in between I know the stars are shining but not for me

How long until I find
the courage
to find a brighter day
waiting just for me

How long until I find
the courage
to find a brighter day
waiting just for me

Every day's a struggle just to find the bitter truth truth is like a bird whose song that I have never heard

How long must I suffer,
how long must I cry
in this life of darkness,
in this endless night

How long must I suffer,
how long must I cry
in this life of darkness,
in this endless night