

Memory Lane

I'm walking down the street and no one's there is to meet through the abandoned town where life once got me down and yet in my dreams it's never what it seems now I run and hide in the shadows of the night

||: Stumblin' down
Memory Lane again
with my tears 'a fallin'
fallin' like rain. :||

I'm sneaking through the gate to the graveyard of my fate I hear that ragged bell it has no fortune to tell

I'll keep my sacred date my destiny can't wait searching for the key that sets my spirit free

||: Stumblin' down
Memory Lane again
fallin' like rain. :||

I have come back
to dream those dreams again, about love and care
and all that we used to share

to dream those dreams again,
about love and care
perhaps they were not really there

Solo (Synth.), Tema (Guit.)

to dream those dreams again,
about love and care

to dream those dreams again,
about love and care
perhaps they were not really there

perhaps they were not there at all at all, at all,
they were not really there at all.
