

Still I keep lying

Watching all the shows flashing by in the half light of my memories still I hope for redemption still I keep lying to my self

Running scared in my darkest dreams from the rain and storm in your twisted mind still I hope for some shelter
still I keep lying to my self

We are all alone in the dark living at the bottom of a sea of lies what will I find in your mind when it's gone, when you're gone away

Watching all the years
flashing by in the twilight of eternity
still I hope for redemption

Someday we shall meet in beyond, they say do I really believe it's true still I hope for reimbursement
still I keep lying to my self

living at the bottom of a sea of lies
when it's gone, when you're gone away

Screaming out in a ghastly way in the rush hour it's a senseless hell still I hope for compassion
still I keep lying to my self

Laughing all the way so they say it will keep you up in a healthy shape still I hope for the easy way
still I keep lying to my self

living at the bottom of a sea of lies
what will I find in your mind
when it's gone, when you're gone away
