

They're all gone

I try to breathe
I try to be happy
reaching out to you
reaching for the sky

They're all gone now
to different places
the lonely road
leads to nowhere

I try to forget I try to get on the world of our dreams is not what it seems

They're all gone now
to different places
the lonely road
leads to nowhere

What have we become we think we're modern what happened to reality
try to walk backwards

I don't belong here
the stars are different we never called it home waiting on a bench

I'm still hanging on I try to follow you
I want to have fun
basking in the sun

They're all gone now
to different places
the lonely road
leads to nowhere

They're all gone now
to different places
the lonely road
leads to nowhere
