

Latte

Won't you come sit beside me just a little while do you think you could spend some time having a latte

Fragments of yesterday passing by like clouds some are sunny and some are dark, rainy and stormy

Having a latte
soothing your soul my friend reliving memories
of times and lives long gone

Fading shadows of evil they can't touch you now that's at least what you think as you're having a latte

Incidents lost their roots floating round and round but the roots will remain unknown deep down and nameless

of times and lives long gone

We are sitting a while here in the Sad Café cups are getting empty now hope they will fill 'em up

Jumping out of existence dream a little dream when I'm closing my eyes I can see your face in the foam

of times and lives long gone
